

I am very much against any change in wisconsin's do not call list. I applaud the state of wisconsin for instituting policy that is more stringent than that of the federal no call list. To have to abide by the federal rules would be a step backward for our state's consumer protection rights. I do not wish to have companies gain in their ability to place unwanted calls to my residence. This is annoying at the very least. I personally consider it harrassment and am sick and tired of unwanted calls. If I want to do business with a company, I know how to find the phone number and call them.
